

No Security Marking

Jenny Kisalu

24/02/2005 12:56

To: "Simon James" <simon.james@niauk.org>
cc: [REDACTED]
Fax to:
Subject: Facts and common myths

Simon

We met yesterday at the AECL presentation to the APPG.

Just to remind you that I'm one of the Energy Unit team.

One of the things we are working on is putting together a list of facts and myths (with short debunking statement) for the web-site. Looking to add to my candidate population of these, I wonder if NIA have a list of such information that we could use?

The facts that I'm after are one liners of the did you know variety (eg a lifetime's electricity use would give rise to just a bucketful of radioactive waste).

The myths are common misconceptions and accusations (nuclear is expensive, plutonium is the most poisonous substance known to man etc). If you have the debunking statement ready drafted, that's great, but I'm happy to have without .

I had a look at the FAQ section on the NIA web-site, but there are only one or two FAQs that could be changed to a "fact"

Give me a call if you need any clarification.

Best regards

Jenny
Tel 01925 834946

No Security Marking