Remarks

World Sugar Research Organisation represents most of the major sugar producing countries in the world. It is dedicated to the development of a better understanding throughout the world of the role of sugar in health, nutrition and other uses based on accredited scientific research.

The Annual Meeting of WSRO is usually attended by the senior managers and the decision makers of the sugar industry. As you are aware, sugar is an important commodity and plays an active role in the world economy. For many developing countries it is an essential source of food energy. The FAO's laudable efforts towards food security and the resulting World Food Summit in Quebec and the planned meeting in November is of considerable interest to our members. In view of the current FAO co-operation with the food industry, I very much hope that you would consider our request for an speaker to review the World Food Summit (Rome 1996) and to present an outline FAO plan on nutrition.

Thanking you in anticipation,

Yours sincerely,

Asthen
